Everyday Solutions Unveils New Product Suite

The new product line provides the only complete solution for Student Transportation Information

Jacksonville, FL – July 9, 2008 – Everyday Solutions, Inc., today during the Florida Association of Pupil Transportation (FAPT) conference <http://www.faptflorida.org>, announced a new integrated product suite that empowers K-12 school districts to dramatically reduce costs and streamline the student transportation information workflow. 13 school districts in the state of Florida have standardized on Everyday Solutions. The new product suite integrates applications acquired from Tizbi Inc in June 2008 with updated hardware and software products from Everyday Solutions. The product suite is designed to drive accountability, improve safety and automate student transportation information workflows and communication.

Integrated Student Transportation Information Solution:

Each software application is launched from a secure Web portal and all student transportation information is stored in a central database and accessible through a simple user interface.

EveryPoint™ is intelligent GPS hardware designed specifically for student transportation to capture the most precise fleet performance and rider attendance data at the lowest monthly cost. EveryPoint can be deployed as a national network to provide the flexibility to roam throughout North America, a district-owned data radio network with no monthly data communication fees or a hybrid approach that combines the two.

EveryWhere™ is a powerful yet easy-to-use Automatic Vehicle Location (AVL) software application which answers “Where?” questions such as “Where are the buses? Where are the student riders?, Where are the bus stops?, etc”

EveryRider™ automatically collects student IDs and the precise time and location each time a rider gets on or off the bus. Hardware options to scan student IDs include hands-free (card is read automatically), touch card (student presents the card in front of scanner) and slide card (student runs card through a barcode slot reader).

EveryAlert™ alerts dispatchers, supervisors and emergency responders automatically to excessive speed or engine idling or when the driver hits the emergency button.

EveryVoice™ is a Push-To-Talk / Direct Dispatch™ option that simulates a two-way radio to provide enhanced communications between drivers and dispatchers plus advanced features such as call logging, private conversations and covert audio monitoring and recording.

EveryTime™ collects and manages time card information electronically from any type of employee activity ranging from regular activities to after-hours special events.

EveryInfo™ automates the data exchange between transportation, principals, assistant principals, transportation, school administrators and parents to eliminate unnecessary faxes, phone calls and hand written notes.

EveryFieldTrip™ empowers school districts to allocate buses that are really available for field trips, process all logistics and driver information and automates field trip invoices efficiently.

EveryInspection™ is a pre and post bus run inspection solution that improves accountability and safety while reducing maintenance costs for the fleet.

All of the Everyday Solutions software applications can be purchased outright or for a monthly fee.

“The Everyday Solutions suite empowers school districts with exciting new tools to further increase safety and improve efficiency, “ says Jay Wurts, President and CEO of Everyday Solutions. “The immediate benefits will help offset the challenge of budget cuts and higher fuel costs.”
